Description:

This paper seeks Cabinet's approval of the National Policy Statement for Highly Productive Land 2022 (NPS-HPL). The NPS-HPL will protect highly productive land (HPL) for land-based primary production by requiring local councils to identify, map and manage HPL, and to ensure it is available for present and future land-based production.

Comments:

We are concerned that the NPS-HPL could unduly compromise objective 2 of the National Policy Statement on Urban Development (NPS-UD). That objective being "[p]lanning decisions improve housing affordability by supporting competitive land and development markets".

Land use capability (LUC) across New Zealand is divided into eight classes, from elite (Class 1) through to unsuitable for any 'productive use' in horticulture or agriculture (Class 8).

The default definition of HPL in the NPS-HPL includes LUC 3 land (in addition to LUC 1 and 2 land), which would increase the percentage of protected land from 5% (under LUC 1 and 2 land alone) to 15% (also including LUC 3 land). This definition will ring-fence many urban areas and is a significant policy choice. Given its potential significance, there is insufficient analysis or option provision around the decision.

Aside from this critical issue, we are satisfied that the NPS-HPL integrates as well as it can with the NPS-UD. Although there are risks that the NPS-HPL makes provision of land supply harder in practice (irrespective of definition of HPL), risk mitigations could be applied in the implementation of the NPS-UD. It is unclear if there will be improved implementation of the NPS-UD as a result of the NPS-HPL.

Treasury Recommendation: Do not support, defer until the paper includes robust analysis of the costs and benefits of the policy choice to include or exclude LUC 3 land from the default definition of HPL under the NPS-HPL. This could also include recommendations for improved implementation of the NPS-UD.

Fiscal Implications:

There are no direct fiscal implications associated with this paper.

Hi Laura,

MPI replied to our queries late yesterday. LUC 3 land is nearly twice as large as LUC 1&2 combined (raising protected land from about 5% to about 15% of all of NZ), so including it in the default definition of HPL is a significant judgement. Their reasoning boils down to:

- It's easier to protect more land, because LUC 1&2 is more patchy
- Most submitters support protecting more rural land
- Some councils already protect LUC1-3 land.

Their analysis was just from a rural land perspective (perhaps given MPI's remit). There was no analysis of the harm to housing affordability by including LUC 3.

I've updated and clarified the content below accordingly, in highlights.

Cheers

Chris

Thanks Chris.

Laura – here’s a few points Chris drafted that could give advisors some context to go off hopefully.

- Our main consideration is that the NPS-HPL does not compromise achieving objective 2 of the NPS-UD which is “Planning decisions improve housing affordability by supporting competitive land and development markets”.
- We are currently satisfied that NPS-HPL integrates as well as it can to not compromise that objective. Although there are risks that the NPS-HPL makes land and housing supply much harder in practice, the risk mitigations are better taken up in the implementation of the NPS-UD, as well as support with wider economic capability and research. However, we are doubtful there will be actually be improved implementation of the NPS-UD as a result of the NPS-HPL.
- ~~The advice should have but did not consider an option refinement to define HPL to exclude LUC 3.~~
- We note the issues we had with the original cost-benefit appraisal pre-COVID probably still stand, but the CBA has not been updated, which may be criticised by third parties.
- ~~[This point was contingent on hearing back from MPI’s policy folk]~~ Recommend that MoF seeks assurance this NPS HPL will not materially reduce supply for urban land. (Ask for advice on benefits to housing affordability by excluding LUC 3, and ask for how NPS UD implementation will mitigate additional risks created by NPS HPL.) Agree to the paper if you are satisfied that is the case.

Hope this broadly helps. Happy to discuss.

Guy

Is there past advice that Treasury has put up on this, or something that went to agencies that I can forward to advisors? As you might imagine, as soon as they see in the template that Treasury doesn't support, they will (very reasonably) ask why. Totally fine just to send 2-3 bullets if it's hard to coordinate across teams and you're pressed for time.

Subject: Consultation: DEV: National Policy Statement for Highly Productive Land

Dear DEVer

Please find attached the long overdue draft Cabinet paper on the National Policy Statement for Highly Productive Land

We intend to take the paper to DEV on August 24

Thanks

Summary

The NPS-HPL will protect highly productive land (HPL) for land-based primary production by requiring local councils to identify, map and manage HPL, and to ensure it is available for present and future land-based primary production.

The NPS-HPL supports:

- the Government Policy Statement on Housing and Urban Development, in supporting resilient, sustainable, inclusive, and prosperous communities; and
- the Government's overarching policy objectives for the housing market, particularly in supporting the creation of a housing and urban land market that credibly responds to population growth and changing housing preferences, that is competitive and affordable for renters and homeowners, and is well-planned and well-regulated; and
- the Government's commitment to honouring the Treaty of Waitangi (Te Tiriti o Waitangi), particularly involving Treaty Partners throughout the development and implementation of this NPS, and removing barriers faced by Māori landowners when developing Māori customary and freehold land, and Treaty Settlement Land.

Description: This paper seeks Cabinet's agreement to release the proposed National Policy Statement for Highly Productive Land (NPS-HPL) exposure draft for targeted consultation. The proposed regulations would effectively restrict rural lifestyle development on highly productive land whilst still allowing development for more intensive urban expansion.

Comments: You provided feedback to reflect the below concerns at Ministerial consultation and asked that the exposure draft and Cabinet paper be amended accordingly. However, we have not seen an amended version of this paper.

We note that land use restrictions could impinge on property rights. A Regulatory Impact Statement (RIS) or cost-benefit analysis (CBA) were not supplied to support rigorous analysis of the options and trade-offs. These risks can be mitigated by releasing the RIS or CBA, alongside the exposure draft.

The exposure draft also included additional qualifications and frictions to urban intensification (para 3.4.3). We consider that the policy intent of the NPS-HPL could be met without these additional qualifications and that the consultation material should be amended to test this.

In addition, the Cabinet paper also misquoted Cabinet's housing policy objective 3. We consider that the objective should be quoted in full so Cabinet can be reminded of the exact wording: "create a housing and urban land market that credibly responds to population growth and changing housing preferences, that is competitive and affordable for renters and homeowners, and is well-planned and well-regulated" [CAB-21-MIN-0045 refers].

Treasury Recommendation: Support and recommend that the CBA be released alongside the NPS-HPL for public consultation.

Fiscal Implications: There are no direct fiscal implications associated with this paper.

Kia ora Chris,

Sorry both Tom and I have been out of office the past two days on a field study. On your queries:

I noticed the RIS didn't comment on an option to exclude LUC 3, following our conversations and our feedback. Was that option analysed and I just missed it?

The Section 32 report (options analysis on page 64 to 66) as well as the Recs report (Pages 19, 31, 41 to 42) may answer your question. Please let me know if you did not receive these two reports as part of the Ministerial consultation package.

Can you advise on what shares of NZ land is each of LUC 1, LUC 2, and LUC 3 separately please? (I tried googling it.)

Please refer to Table 1 in the attached journal article for an area breakdown of each LUC Class.

[IN-CONFIDENCE]

Hi

Thanks for the opportunity to comment on the draft Cabinet paper and NPS-HPL and for meeting and discussing this with us.

We recognise that some sort of NPS-HPL is likely inevitable, and our main consideration is that the NPS-HPL does not compromise achieving objective 2 of the NPS-UD which is "Planning decisions improve housing affordability by supporting competitive land and development markets".

We are currently satisfied that NPS-HPL integrates well enough to not compromise that objective. Although there are certainly risks that the NPS-HPL makes it harder to achieve competitive urban land markets, the risk mitigations are better taken up in the implementation of the NPS-UD, as well as support with wider economic capability and research.

As discussed, there are option refinements to define HPL to exclude LUC 3. If that option has been appraised and recommended against, we suggest that reasoning be laid out in the RIS.

We note the issues we had with the original CBA by Market Economics pre-COVID probably still stand, but the CBA has not been updated, which may be criticised by third parties.

Cheers

Chris

Kia ora koutou,

The Ministry for Primary Industries and Ministry for the Environment have developed a draft Cabinet paper seeking Cabinet agreement to gazette the proposed National Policy Statement for Highly Productive Land (NPS-HPL).

You have been reached via the contact list from mid-2021 during the development of the NPS-HPL. If you are no longer the right agency contact for this work, please forward the email to the relevant staff member.

This final advice package is prepared for the DEV meeting on 27 July 2022 (lodging on 20 July). Agency feedback needs to be back with us by 5pm on 16 June (Thursday).

Please feel free to contact the project team or organise a short catch up if you have any inquiries.

Thank you.

Hi Chris,

Thanks for your time at our meeting on Monday. Here's the Section 32 report for your review. The comments on the document are deliberately left there for our legal team's reference. We noted your comment regarding determining highly productive land based on LUC 1 to 3. We will finalise this section ahead of Ministerial consultation next week.

FYI, we intend to provide the advice package for Ministerial consultation on 21 June. Let us know if you have any questions or immediate responses to the s32.

Hi Chris,

In this email you'll find the CBA and the RIS for your reference. The section 32 report will be provided to you at a later date, as informed by Tom.
See you on Monday. Have a good weekend.

[IN-CONFIDENCE]

Hi Hong,

Thanks for sharing the draft Cabinet paper and draft NPS-HPL with us. To help us understand the proposed policy can MPI please supply:

- The CBA that supports the proposal
- The RMA section 32 evaluation report
- The RIS.

Given the short turnaround for dept consultation can we ask please:

- What engagement have you had with Urban Growth Agenda agencies this year to date?
- Given Treasury's advisory responsibilities and capabilities on the related matters of competitive urban land markets (NPS UD Objective 2) and the problematic CBA previously for this proposal, why could MPI not work with the Treasury at an earlier possible stage (as per paras 5.19 and 5.20 of the Cabinet manual)?

Thank you.

Ps, please note that Corwin Wallens and Dylan Chambers have moved on from Treasury.

Cheers
Chris

Kia ora koutou,

The Ministry for Primary Industries and Ministry for the Environment have developed a draft Cabinet paper seeking Cabinet agreement to gazette the proposed National Policy Statement for Highly Productive Land (NPS-HPL).

You have been reached via the contact list from mid-2021 during the development of the NPS-HPL. If you are no longer the right agency contact for this work, please forward the email to the relevant staff member.

This final advice package is prepared for the DEV meeting on 27 July 2022 (lodging on 20 July). Agency feedback needs to be back with us by 5pm on 16 June (Thursday).

Please feel free to contact the project team or organise a short catch up if you have any inquiries.

Thank you.

Morning Glen

I understand from David Hermans that you wanted to discuss the NPS-HPL with somebody at HUD. I was leading our engagement with MPI during its development and am available to talk this morning or tomorrow afternoon about it. We are happy with the version attached to the latest Cabinet paper.

Subject: HPL points re LUC 1-3
Date: Wednesday, 24 August 2022 10:20:40 am

Hi Chris,

Just FYI – here are some points re why we propose LUC 1-3 rather than LUC 1-2. Also see comments from MHUD further below:

MPI/MfE consider LUC 1-3 should be retained as:

- LUC 1-3 is consistent with a number of regional approaches – using a smaller range of LUC will reduce existing protections, including some areas of prominent food growing hubs that are LUC 3;
- LUC1-3 subject to significant loss already, particularly to lifestyle subdivisions;
- Mapping LUC 1-3 was broadly supported by submitters, including soil scientists; and
- The scale of LUC (1:50,000) makes it difficult to correctly identify LUC 1 and 2, but the scale is appropriate to identify ‘large and geographically cohesive’ areas of LUC 1-3.

Key point is that protecting LUC 1-2 would result in the NPS-HPL reducing existing protections of HPL as:

Tier 1 councils with existing protections of LUC 3

- Auckland
- Bay of Plenty
- Waikato (some subgroups of LUC 3)
- Hawke’s Bay

Tier 1 councils that only LUC 1-2

- Wellington
- Christchurch

N/A

- Queenstown n/a

Subject: RE: FYI HPL at DEV tomorrow

Thanks Tom

We weren’t planning in being there. This is what we provided to the Minister’s office around the Ministerial Consultation:

We have really appreciated how collaboratively the HPL Team has worked with us to manage the interface between the protecting HPL and enabling Urban Development. We are supportive of the final drafting attached as Appendix 1 of Cabinet paper. The latest drafting of the NPS-HPL has addressed all of our previous concerns.

It is worth noting that the HPL land is restricted to land that is zoned rural so excludes any area (like Drury) that is zoned for future urban development. It will also be possible to rezone land for urban development where this is necessary to provide sufficient development capacity for the area (an NPS-UD requirement). The HPL requirements will not apply when rural land has been rezoned for urban development.

I hope it goes well for you tomorrow.

Regards

Mike

Subject: FYI HPL at DEV tomorrow

Kia ora Mike,

Hope all's going well?

NPS-HPL is due to be considered at DEV tomorrow, 11am. I just wanted to flag in case you or someone from HUD were planning to wait outside in case there were questions about the NPS-UD interaction? I think this would be unlikely given we didn't hear anything through Ministerial consultation.

Cheers,

Tom
